New Madrid Float winner

Tax embezzlers hard to convict

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Department of Revenue Director James Spradling says millions of dollars in sales taxes are being embezzled from the state each year, but he's having trouble getting the embezzlers into court.

He said the embezzlers are firms—large and small—which collect sales taxes from customers, but keep the money rather than sending it to the state.

Since Spradling took office in January he has been trying to find out which companies are not paying, or underpaying their sales taxes. He says at least 15 per cent of the sales tax money due the state is missing and it amounts to "well over $30 million a year."

The department is ready to move against a large number of firms.

State law calls for the attorney general to conduct prosecutions, but also provides that he can call on local prosecutors for assistance. The argument is over who should do it.

While many out-state prosecutors have been handling delinquent sales tax cases for some time, it's only this year that prosecutors in Kansas City, St. Louis and St. Louis County have been asked to handle the chore.

One example of why the Revenue Department is unhappy about prosecution efforts is a case in Jasper County where a suit to collect $2,294 against a firm that went out of business, was thrown out of court.

John O. Phelps, assistant county prosecutor, said a motion to dismiss was filed Sept. 17 and by Sept. 19 Circuit Judge Robert Warden of Carthage had ruled on it. Neither side was in court to argue the motion.

Revenue Department officials feel a more vigorous prosecution of such cases would result in more judgements against sales tax evaders.

D. Brook Bartlett, first assistant attorney general, said the volume of sales taxes being taken from the state is "outrageous," but said the attorney general's office should not handle the prosecutions.

"We don't have the budget for it ... it's a better utilization of people to have the local prosecutors do it," he said.

Bartlett said the attorney general, until this year, had been acting as the collection agency for the Revenue Department, but was successful in having this function—of mailing out delinquent notices—transferred to Revenue. And prosecutions in the urban areas were shifted to local prosecutors, thus relieving the attorney general's office of the responsibility.

Ralph L. Martin, prosecutor of Jackson County, opposes this approach. His office handles criminal cases but is now faced with a request from revenue to handle 91 civil petitions amounting to $250,000—most of it in delinquent sales taxes.

"It's a tremendous burden," said Martin.

Landfill free to public

BENTON — The Scott County Court announced Thursday that it has leased the sanitary landfill one mile north of Morley on Highway 61 for three months and will permit county residents to use it free of charge. The change was to go into effect today.

Presiding Judge Les Lankford said the court will receive bids during the three-month period on alternate landfill sites and will work with the Scott County Mayors Association in the selection of the most appropriate site.

"We may decide after the three months are up to build a landfill in another location," Lankford said. "We want to do what the people want."

The landfill was originally opened on June 18 by James Patrick who halted the operation on July 24, reportedly due to lack of business.

Trash haulers said they did not patronize Patrick's business because of high prices.

On July 31, Sonny's Solid Waste of Sikeston purchased the landfill and has operated it since that time.

Burglars take $714 in change and equipment

Burglars took $714 in change and equipment from the offices of Montgomery Investment Co., 214 N. Scott, between 5 p.m. Wednesday and 8:05 a.m. Thursday, according according to police.

Taken were a dictaphone valued at $285, a calculator worth $394, a radio valued at $30, about $4 in change from a drawer and $1 from a soft drink machine. Also taken were 12 bottles of alcoholic beverages and another calculator of unknown value.

Police said entry appeared to be through a back door.

Substation hearing set

JEFFERSON CITY— The application of Union Electric Company of St. Louis to construct an electric substation near Kelso will be heard Oct. 16 by the Missouri Public Service Commission.

The hearing will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the Public Service Commission hearing room in the Jefferson Building in Jefferson City.

Those who wish to intervene and participate in the case must file a written application with the commission. Persons who wish to testify in the case but do not want to intervene should communicate with Harry Wiggins, PSC general counsel.

The proposed substation would, if approved, be located about one and one half miles southeast of Kelso near Route PP.

Union Electric said the substation is needed to provide more capacity to Missouri Utilities Company in the area. The substation will be part of additional connections with facilities of the Southwestern Power Administration and Missouri Utilities.

Missouri Utilities was granted authority by the Public Service Commission in June to construct two 161,000- volt lines to obtain the power. One will join Missouri Utilities' substation at Miner with the Southwestern Power substation near Sikeston, and the other will run from the proposed Kelso substation to a Missouri Utilities line southwest of Kelso.

Industries still assessing impact of gas cutoffs

Industries in Southeast Missouri and Northeast Arkansas today were still assessing the impact of this week's announcement that Arkansas - Missouri Power Co. of Blytheville, Ark., would sharply curtail gas supplies to its municipal and industrial customers.

Officials from Ark-Mo Power Co. and its subsidiary, Associated Natural Gas Co., met Thursday afternoon with industrial users of natural gas and told them to expect only about 75 per cent of the gas they received last year.

In addition to the sharp gas cutbacks, Ark-Mo officials say a rationing plan is being formulated for the equitable sharing of available gas. Once formulated, the plan will be presented to the industrial firms for discussion.

Clint Halstead, plant manager of Noranda Aluminum Inc. near Marston, said his firm was still assessing the impact on the company and would know more in a few weeks. Halstead said the gas curtailment could affect employment and expansion.

He said the company may be forced to sell its aluminum in a different form; prepared for bulk delivery instead of a semi-finished condition.

Federal Mogul, an aluminum products firm in Malden, faces similar problems. John Pieri, plant manager of the firm, said he has not yet assessed what the curtailment will mean.

Federal Mogul was able to continue partial operations

Man found dead today

A dead man was found at 11:05 a.m. today in front of the south entrance of the Safeway food store in Kingsway Plaza Mall.

The only identification the man was carrying was a piece of cardboard with a New York address. Police said he was in his late 50's or early 60's.

'UFO' puzzles victim

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — A physicist here said he will conduct further tests on a pair of eyeglasses belonging to a truck driver who said he saw a flying object and then was hit in the face by a ball of fire that temporarily blinded him.

Dr. Harley Rutledge, head of the physics department at Southeast Missouri State University, said Thursday he had examined the broken eyeglasses of Eddie D. Webb and found the plastic frames had been burned.

Webb, 45, told the highway patrol he was driving his tractor-trailer truck on Interstate 55 Wednesday, south of Jackson, when he saw "a light on a large aluminum object in the air" behind him.

"I could see half of it in the rear-view mirror. It was shaped like a turnip and covered both lanes. The center section was steady, but top and bottom was spinning around with red, and yellow lights," Webb said.

Webb told troopers he awoke his wife, who was sleeping in the cab, but she didn't see anything. He stuck his head out the window to look behind and "a large ball of fire struck him about the head and face," the patrol report said.

Webb's glasses were broken and his wife drove the truck to Southeast Missouri Hospital. Col. Sam Smith, superintendent of the highway patrol, said Webb's vision did not seem to be impaired when he was released Thursday, but he was to have further examination.

"I don't know what it was. People want me to say it was a flying saucer, but I can't say that. I just don't know," Webb said. "I always thought people that saw those things were crazy. Now everybody think's I'm cracking up, but by God I saw something and it blinded me."

Dr. Rutledge, who has been investigating reports of unidentified flying objects the last several weeks, said he examined the eyeglasses under his microscope and the plastic frame appeared to have been heated internally.

"I was quite surprised. It doesn't look like a hoax at this point," he said.

He said that in literature on UFO sightings such burn marks are said to have been caused by sound waves of high intensity.

New charges sought

Police said today they are seeking two more charges against Walter Kearby, 23, of 312 Jackson as a result of a high speed chase through Scott County Wednesday night.

They said they have arrested him for destruction of private property for the damage done to the median strip on Davis Blvd. where he reportedly drove his car over it and for not having a city sticker.

Kearby was arrested on five charges Wednesday, including traveling at 110 miles per hour in a 30- mile zone, two counts of running a stop sign, going the wrong way on a one way street and driving without a license.

He was chased through city streets and over county roads at speeds in excess of 100 miles per hour before being run off the road near Vanduser by a Scott County Deputy Sheriff.

One other arrest announced today was Clifford Ray Flippo, 123 N. West, assault and battery.

Bicyclist must obey traffic laws too

By PAT GROJEAN

With somewhere around 5,000 bicycles in Sikeston and more being purchased all the time, bicycling is becoming, if it hasn't already become, a major factor in traffic control and regulations.

Although it is hard to determine the number of bicycles in Sikeston because no registration is required, Sgt. Richard Couch, police safety officer, estimated the 5,000 figure. With bicycles becoming more popular as a form of transportation and exercise, sales have been growing steadily.

Although most of the bicyclists are youngsters, many adults are now pedaling a two- wheeler. Safety of all cyclists is a major concern to Sgt. Couch and the police department.

The city has 12 sections in city ordinances relating to bicycling.

The first one is that parents are responsible for seeing that their children obey the city ordinances while bicycling. For most parents this will involve some kind of instruction for the child.

The ordinance provides that parents may be given citations if their youngsters break the law while bicycling.

If cyclists ride at night, the law states that the bicycle must have a lamp on the front and reflecter on the back. Even if the bicycle has a tail light, it must also have a reflector, Couch said.

Bicyclists are to ride with the traffic, not against it and should ride close to the curb. Couch explained that when cyclists ride with the traffic flow, autos approaching from behind can see them and slow down easier than an auto coming toward a moving bicycle.

Bicyclists are also required to give proper hand signals for turns, stops and other movements. The problem with this, Couch explained, is that motor vehicle drivers, often do not recognize these signals.

City law also requires that a bicycle have a horn or bell.

City policemen may, according to the law, stop a bicyclist and inspect the bicycle if it appears to be a safety hazard. If the bicycle is found to be a hazard it may be impounded. The vehicle may also be impounded if a rider violates the law.

Bicyclists are prohibited from riding on the sidewalk in the downtown area and, in residential areas, they must yield the right of way to pedestrians on the sidewalk and signal with an audible sound when passing someone walking.

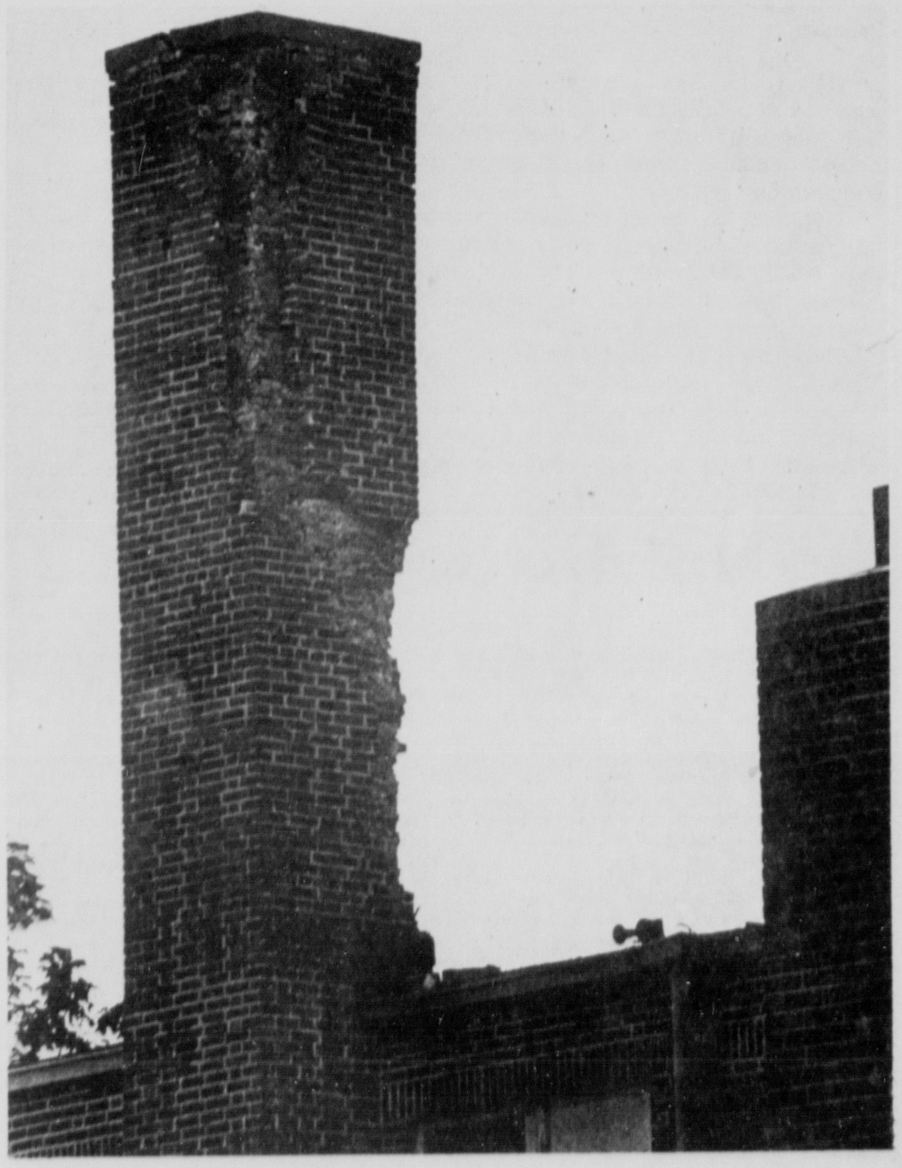
Bicyclists may not park on the street or in the middle of a sidewalk. They should park next to a curb or building, but not in front of a doorway.

Until 10- speed bicycles became so popular, speeding was not a problem. Bicyclists must obey all speed limits, just as motor vehicle drivers do.

Bicycles are becoming a problem, Couch said. He added that during the summer officers were complaining about older people riding at night without lights.

Couch thinks bicycles do have a place on the street, but that cyclists must obey all traffic laws.

Police cadets will take an active part in bicycle safety in the future, Couch said.



Lightning strikes twice

Lightning struck at least twice in Sikeston Thursday when both the junior high school chimney and the new highway patrol satellite headquarters suffered from stray bolts. The junior high school chimney looked like some gigantic mouth had taken a bite from the bricks, but the patrol station may have come out worse. The lightning that struck there traveled down the radio tower and into the radio equipment in the building, possibly causing electrical damage to some of the communications equipment.

The week of September 20 was indeed a sad week for the editor. He lost two of his friends of many years. Lewis Flewelling, who did yeoman like work for nothing when I was chairman of the relief committee for Scott County and there were no paid jobs. He was a tobacco salesman at that time. It was in the early 30's. Joe Moore of Charleston, who I remember as one of the best Representatives Mississippi County ever had in the legislature. I think the people of Mississippi County have lost one of their main citizens. I guess maybe the price we pay when we get old is that our friends, the Lord calls home. Every day the bell tolls for one of us, it matters not whether we know of the direct effects, it is there, each passing will be missed, but each contributed to the sum total of the life we have and while there is a better place because of them the passing of some is felt even more deeply because they were regretfully from a disappearing mold, such men were Lewis Flewelling and Joe Moore.

SALUTE
4-H WEEK

National 4-H Week is to be observed this year from October 7-13. The activities of some 5 million young people in this farm organization should serve to remind all Americans that the majority of our citizens, especially its young, hold firm to the ideals and aspirations that make a great nation.

The interests of 4-H are broad and varied. They deal with the environment, nutrition, health, community betterment, management, careers and international programs. 4-H members fight air and water pollution, learn about land management, strive for safe use of insecticides and other chemicals. They promote health education and endeavor to eliminate harmful drug usage and smoking. They learn techniques by projects and how the free enterprise system works.

We salute the Southeast Missouri area 4-H groups who with millions of other young people are doing things to make the U. S. a stronger and better nation.

According to a Washington report, the National Lawyers Guild (a radical lawyers' organization) seeks to overturn the 1972 elections by using Watergate as the basis to sue for the overturning of what they claim as the "fraudulent, unlawful and unconstitutional" 1972 presidential election.

The suit would call for new elections, hopefully under terms drawn up by the NLG on behalf of "the people" and financed partially by any funds raised but left unspent by the Committee to Re-elect the President, the 1972 Nixon campaign organization.

Drawing almost exclusively on material made public by the Senate Watergate Committee, a task force from NLG's national office in New York has fashioned a 27- page rough draft of the lawsuit, now being circulated among Guild lawyers for comment and revision.

Obtained by Human Events, the rough draft of the suit, an accompanying four-page memorandum, and an explanatory letter from NLG national headquarters lawyers James Reif and Paul Schachter point up two clear purposes of the legal effort:

First, it will be a major organizing, fund- raising and "educational" tool for the Guild, which hopes to attract not only the leftist and liberals who come panting to every "cause," but also the socially disgruntled and politically unaware who might be manipulated on the Watergate issue.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Women rarely worry about marrying a man smarter than they, because they always feel that if they can't outwit a man they can always outmaneuver him by superior cunning. That's why a wife continues to try to remold her husband nearer to her own wishes. From birth she thinks of man as a form of workable putty.

More men would achieve success in this world, and enjoy life more, if they wore shoes one half size bigger. Tight shoes will cramp anybody's life style, as well as sour his personality.

An optimist is a man in middle age with a chronic disease who believes the onward march of medicine will find a care for it in his lifetime.

The quickest way to win a reputation as a bore is to insist on performing card tricks at cocktail parties.

It is no testimony to your popularity to be invited to spend a weekend at someone's country place. People who own country places would rather invite Jack the Ripper for company than face a weekend alone with themselves.

One reason civilization is such a monumental failure today is that it no longer inspires man to test himself to the utmost to see what he can do. Instead, it inspires him chiefly to escape blame for whatever happens. He would rather keep his nose clean than save his soul.

The most overrated food in America is steak, partly because of its current high price. But a really first-rate steak is, and always has been, a rarity. The ordinary diner can always get more real enjoyment of a well-cooked tasty pot roast or even meatloaf than a run-ofthe-shop steak. A steak, even at a top restaurant, is always a gamble. There are fewer things duller than a steak diet, and if a dictator made the eating of steak mandatory at every meal, he would be overthrown by a revolution within three months. It would be the same, of course, if it were caviar that was decreed, but the revolution would start four months sooner.

It takes a man with a beard roughly six weeks longer to win a girl's heart than a man who has only a mere mustache.

Jogging may be a pleasurable sport and fine exercise in some ways, but some joggers themselves are getting to be quite a nuisance. Their friends have to take a full half day off work in order to attend their funerals.

WORKINGS OF AN IDLE MIND

If you've heard it once, you've heard it — as they say — a thousand times:

"Two wrongs don't make a right."

That's what your mother told you, right? And your pastor. And your teacher. It's one of the few things the American culture seems to be sure about.

You hear it on the Watergate follies once every 15 minutes. Some administration spook, cringing before the lash of a senator's opprobrium, will whine:

"Yes, we committed dirty tricks, I admit it. But what about Kennedy and Johnson and Woodrow Wilson? Democrats commit dirty tricks, too, you know."

At which point the senator will clear his throat, straighten his tie, look directly into the television camera and say, in his deepest voice:

"DON'T YOU KNOW THAT TWO WRONGS DON'T MAKE A RIGHT?"

The witness reacts with appropriate chagrin. "Oh, yes, certainly. You're absolutely right about that, senator. A right is exactly what two wrongs don't make."

To which one might say:

"One wrong unrevenged doesn't make a right either."

I mean, getting even with someone who's done you wrong may not make things right, but it certainly makes things feel better.

You can overdo it, of course; anyone who's ever seen a movie about Sicily knows that. But, on base, one of the greatest pleasures of life is giving to someone like they gave it to you. And if you can arrange to shout: "Take that!" at the precise moment of retribution, so much the better.

We, as a society, seem to have lost sight of the fact that the desire for revenge is a natural human instinct, as real as hunger or lust. We've made people feel as guilty about getting even as Victorian England was about sexual desire.

I wouldn't be a bit surprised if some modern- day Freud were to formulate a theory that all of our problems are the result of revenge suppression.

Look at our system of criminal justice. It has become criminal- oriented; that is, it seeks to rehabilitate the criminal or, in some cases, to punish him.

But what about the victim? He's the wronged party yet the system doesn't take his needs into consideration. And what the victim wants, generally, is revenge. A system that took into consideration the desires of the victim in the disposal of criminal cases would go a long way toward heightening the sense of justice that exists (or doesn't exist) in this country.

The only problem with seeking justice through revenge is that just retribution is difficult to measure. An innocent man is wronged. In seeking to get even he wants as great a misfortune to befall his adversary as befell him — plus 10 per cent. After all, he was innocent. His adversary is not.

The adversary can accept the equal wrong, but the 10 per cent goes down hard. So perhaps he feels himself the aggrieved party and he seeks new revenge. It can go on like that for centuries.

Still, no system of justice is perfect and the revenge scheme has this great advantage:

FILLING THE GAS GAP

Terming it a "... landmark step towards easing the nation's short supply of energy" a natural gas industry spokesman has announced that one of the nation's major natural gas companies has applied to the Federal Power Commission for approval of plans to construct the world's first commercial complex for conversion of coal into synthetic gas of high heating value. The projected plant will cost an estimated $420 million and will produce approximately 250 million cubic feet of gas daily when it reaches full operation in 1977. This is equal to about half the average daily gas requirements of New York City. The industry official also called attention to another major project of the natural gas industry -- to import liquefied natural gas from Algeria.

The most significant aspect of the long-term and now rapidly expanding program of the gas industry to increase natural gas supplies is that it once again illustrates how technology and the initiative of taxpaying, investor- owned industry by their nature reject defeatism and solve problems. The only question in late years has been whether that ingenuity, as reflected in the operations of industries such as natural gas, is to be deflected from the task of meeting society's needs by the "lie-down- and die" attitude that many have taken toward what they view as an inevitable energy crisis.

Gas from supplemental sources, as well as increased incentives for domestic, conventional exploration and production of natural gas, are vitally needed to meet the nation's growing demands for energy. The industries, the managements, the technolgoists and scientists who are doing something about meeting tomorrow's energy demands need support, not basless criticism. The public should give them that support.

STAUNCHEST FRIEND

In reality, there has been no real fight against inflation. Government deficits and debt show little signs of abating. The U. S. Congress resistsefforts to cut spending, andare looking for an experienced person to head it. Right now the choice is between Daniel Ellsberg, the Berrigan brothers and Angela Davis, Huey Newton was under consideration but the vice - president's advisers decided he was too short.

Peter Kann, writing in the Wall Street Journal, delivered this beautiful, capsule summary of the Cambodian people:

"Cambodians, while certainly no less capable of violence and brutality than the next nationality, still, in general, aren't a naturally warlike people. If the Vietnamese are the Prussians of Southeast Asia, the Cambodians might be considered the Italians."

EFFICIENCY OR RESPONSIVENESS

Governmental "reform" is again a popular subject. "Reformers" have wondered why voters seem reluctant to go along with all their theories for bringing "efficiency" to government at local, state and national levels by giving more power and control to mayors, governors, presidents and bureaucrats. The public has learned by bitter experience that most "reforms" bring efficiency chiefly in the ability to control ordinary, law-abiding, tax- paying citizens. Seldom if ever does the "efficiency" lead to improved service, to better crime control or to tax cuts. Rather, the opposite is true.

States and large cities are under pressure to centralize and consolidate the power of government, supposedly to contend with problems of urban areas. When the results bring worse conditions than before the "reforms," the only solution the "reformers" seem to come up with is to spend more money and give more control to increasing numbers of non- elected officials.

Every citizen and taxpayer sees the difference when having to deal with governmental offices where the officials cannot be voted out of office and cannot be fired short of flagrant felony-- and sometimes not even then.

As the Founders of our Republic understood so well, officials in government do not become all- wise saints by virtue of their commissions. They are people subject to error just like the rest of us. Citizens will wish to study closely any "reforms" which increase the power of bureaucrats over our daily lives. Government can never be truly efficient; this is not in the nature of government. It can just become unresponsive, and then tyrannical, by trying too hard for too much "efficiency." HLH everyone wants to be the last to get off the gravy train. These upward pressures virtually guarantee that the nation's mass retail distributors will be in for another year of trying to explain to the people why prices rise, how the free market economic system works and the reasons why consumers can expect the fairest possible prices under this system, in spite of inflation.

As has been pointed out again and again, one has only to look at other economic systems around the world to realize that Americans are a lucky people. Especially is this true when comparing the American experience with the plight of people in countries where there are no free markets, no competition and the state rules the marketplace. For instance, in Yugoslavia where the average take- home pay is the equivalent of $100 a month, the average family spends half of its income on food -- compared to less than 16 per cent for the average family in the United States. The same distributive efficiency that applies to U. S. retail food distribution and food prices also applies to all other phases of merchandising. U. S. retail merchants in every field are ardent disciples of the high volume, minimum price philosophy of competitive, mass distribution.

This competitive, free market philosophy of distribution is one of the strongest opponents of inflation -bread price rises -- for the simple reason that nothing threatens the success of mass distribution more directly than inflationary price increases that price customers out of the market. So when we hear about the fight against inflation, we should learn to distinguish friends from foes. The consumer's staunchest friend is the free market system.

LOGIC AND FOOD PRICES

Peerless logic has never been a common attribute of the human race. Sadly, this is being proved again as many reach the conclusion that Phase III has failed and rigid price controls or perhaps a freeze are needed to halt inflation.

As The Wall Street Journal points out, an important part of the jump of the cost of living has been due to increased food prices, where Phase III controls are no different than Phase II controls were. People forget that the increased cost of many food items, including meat, is due to increased costs of production and to increased demand for these food products. Freezing prices at low levels that eliminated producer profit is no way to increase supply which, in turn, is thyonly way to reduce the pressure on prices. Let's quit kidding ourselves. Controlling the federal budget will control inflation and that is the end of the story.

Switching Golf Clubs:
White House Lacerated in Meany's Massive Secret Watergate Report

WASHINGTON--- Dick Nixon is convinced the House of Representatives won't impeach him but the House of Labor will.

This isn't the cheeriest thought of his day. But even with the mighty George Meany clubbing him, the President won't lack for laborite golfing partners, political allies and big labor support. It was evident last Friday in the Oval Office when Mr. Nixon, in an expansive mood, gave his best set of personal golf clubs to a yet little- known but soon to be heard from Teamsters' leader.

It all began shortly after the Democratic convention mid- July last year. The Teamsters Brotherhood countered George McGovern by highballing it up to San Clemente to tell the President the 2.2 million- member trucking union had endorsed him. Led by Teamsters general president Frank Fitzsimmons they found Dick Nixon swatting balls on the three hole mini- golf "course."

Each Teamsters board member was offered a shot at a ball--- and the President, as they left, promised his own set of clubs to the first one who hits a hole in one in the future. Well, this past Aug. 12, Fitz's executive assistant, Teamsters 14th vice president, the 47- year- old, 6- foot- 2 erstwhile Atlanta truck driver, Weldon Mathis, made that hole in one by aceing the 208- yard 9th hole at the Bethesda Country Club.

Word went to Dick Nixon. Last Friday he made good. He called in Fitz, special labor adviser Don Rodgers and Mathis--- and handed the latter his own set of clubs. It was all good- humored. Several years ago it would have been a party of Meany and friends. But now it's knives instead of clubs.

Despite the Teamsters' powerful backing, Meany's coordinated AFL- CIO assault is of significant and critical, national and global import to Dick Nixon. For, the following Monday beginning at 10 a.m., there gathered in the House of Labor, across the park from the White House, some of the movement's most influential leaders. These comprised the special five- man Watergate committee created by Meany in whose office they conferred for some three hours.

They had before them the preliminary, unfinished 70- page draft of a Watergate white paper they will present to the AFL- CIO's executive council probably on Oct. 17, the day before they open their biennial national convention in Bal Harbour, Fla.

Meany's staff did a fantastic equivalent of a legal brief. It has an operating room's antiseptic quality. There is no rhetoric. It is quote after quote. Excerpt after excerpt from the hearings and other documents.

It is a compilation of statements which many have forgotten and fewer would take the time to scalpel from the virtually endless Senate Seven hearings.

Some of the committee members thought it too easy on President Nixon. Some, too tough. What it does is to print Senate hearing testimony, for example, from men such as former presidential counsel John Dean III who appears to say there was a White House decision to get the President's opponents. There is reference to the enemy list. There is a list of contributions. And the I. T. & T. saga.

It is rapier- sharp in its selectivity. And it is far from finished.

When it is finished it will be printed in a volume for a report to the AFL- CIO 35- man executive council--- on which are many who endorsed President Nixon for reelection. There may be a fight. But I doubt it. Rarely is there anything but overwhelming support for the masterful crusty chief of labor chiefs.

Then the high command will work out some resolution for the 2,000- delegate convention. There they'll flay the President mercilessly. The McGovern forces will zero in for the political kill. The cries in the highest decibles will fill the hall for "Nixon's impeachment."

But it will all be in Meany's hands. He has the votes. His attitude is--- wait for the Supreme Court edict on the tapes.

Then, if Dick Nixon defies the high court, demand his impeachment. But what if the four jurists, including the chief justice, whom Mr. Nixon appointed, disqualify themselves? This would leave five men. And the President would not consider a 3 to 2 decision, or closer, a "definitive" one. And he will not yield the tapes in such circumstances, it is believed. Then Meany would open up. No holds barred, it is expected.

But such an assault by labor would be the least of the damage the AFL- CIO president hopes to inflict on Dick Nixon, it is reported. To use an old Leninist phrase--- Meany and his Watergate committee hope to derail the President's train in history.

First: The report, the introductory Meany statement, the executive council's massive document and probably the convention's decision will be produced as a book. This will be sent to unions across the nation, and there are thousands of them. And to libraries, universities, scholars, any who seek it. And it does what few unfunded analysts could do--- it runs through the millions of words of the Senate Seven hearings like a computer and selects statements long forgotten. And arrays them in searing phalanxes.

It will be a workingman's guide to Watergate. They hope it will smudge Dick Nixon's place in history.

Second: The convention debate will be observed by more than 100 foreign labor "fraternal" delegates who will be wined and feted. They are powerful labor leaders from scores of nations. They are influential in their countries. Some hold high government positions.

They will report back to their labor federations and governments on all continents. The volume will be dispatched behind the Iron and Bamboo Curtains. Dick Nixon's White House will be portrayed in the image of Dean, Hunt and Liddy.

Since virtually all the foreign labor observers are socialists of some sort, there is no doubt the volume will be of significance in the fight on their more conservative oppositions.

And in the "year of Europe" it will denigrate Dick Nixon, and what he has attempted to stand for in the kleig lights of the world.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
George Meany and the Spy

WASHINGTON-- Secret spy reports, telling of AFL- CIO President George Meany's testiness toward the Democratic presidential contenders, persuaded President Nixon to court the old labor curmudgeon during the 1972 campaign.

White House sources tell us H. R. Haldeman, then the President's chief of staff, opposed any rapprochement with labor. The spy reports, however, quoted caustic outbursts from Meany against the leading Democrats and pleaded that the old warhorse could be won over with a presidential pat on the head.

This finally convinced Nixon to carry on a flirtation with Meany for the duration of the campaign. The stormy courtship, however, was based on espionage information which Meany now disputes.

The Nixon spy, Seymour Freidin, reported to the White House that he spoke to Meany off- the- record on at least three occasions, once over a gin rummy game. But when we made Freidin's reports available to the AFL- CIO boss, he sent back word: "This is absolute nonsense. I never saw Freidin in my life. I never talked with him. I've never been interviewed by him."

Freidin's reports from inside the AFL- CIO began on April 13, 1971. He quoted AFL- CIO advisor Jay Lovestone as telling him at an off- the- record lunch that Meany had "chewed out" Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D- Minn., over his opposition to the supersonic transport plane "as if he were a kindergarten brat. The old man told Hubert...that he couldn't get a nickel from the AFL- CIO if he (Meany) could manage it."

On Sept. 7, 1971, Freidin sent another report to the White House telling how Meany had disparaged the Democrats. "George Meany was in crusty, acidulous form when I met with him for 40 minutes over the Labor Day weekend, " reported Freidin. "This meeting was off- the-record."

'SCREWED UP'

When Humphrey's name came up, according to Freidin, Meany snorted: "He is so screwed up that he even tries to make out that he's 35- year-old. That silly b---- even has his hair dyed at least once a week. It shines with a red tinge...He's going no place."

Meany reportedly referred to Sen. Ed Muskie, D- Me., then leading the presidential polls, contemptuously as "Shmuskie." Freidin quoted Lovestone as explaining that Muskie was "a bad Polish joke."

In those pre- primary days, Meany reportedly dismissed Sen. George McGovern, D- S. D., with a snort and a prophetic crack: "He's the kind of guy who would make us Republicans or we wouldn't vote at all or support anyone."

But the following July, over a gin rummy hand at the Democratic convention, Meany supposedly told Freidin caustically: "(McGovern) is unprincipled; he's a creep. I wouldn't trust him even if he stayed in my sight."

Freidin's reports strongly suggest that the President should butter up Meany personally. The crusty labor lord suffered from a "bruised ego," wrote Freidin. "Meany wants to bargain with or talk directly to the President. This came through loud and clear at least half a dozen times in our conversation."

Freidin quoted Meany as grumping: "How the hell do you cooperate (with the White House) if you can't talk to the team manager, only to his assistant coaches?"

Freidin urged on Jan. 11, 1972, that Meany wanted "to somehow patch things up with the President and at the same time, save face...He said of the box of cigars the President sent him as a Christmas gift: "It was very thoughtful. I wish that he'd also had the time to call and say hello.' In other words, it seems Meany would dearly love to have a call from the President inquiring into his health.'.

Eventually the call came.

CAMERA CONSCIOUS-- President Nixon's classy armored limousine costs the taxpayers $12,000 a year in rental fees, but the President seldom uses it. Insiders say it's because the bulletproof glass in the 1972 Lincoln distorts camera shots of him. Nixon, who already has enough image problems as a result of Watergate, therefore, uses the 1968 custom- designed limousine. This costs $5,000 a year from its owners, the Ford Motor Company. The White House says that Nixon uses the older car, not because the new car distorts his image, but because he prefers the older limousine.

PRESS PRIVILEGE-- Hank Greenspun, the hard- hitting publisher of the Las Vegas Sun, refused last week to turn over documents to the special Watergate prosecutors. They summoned Greenspun to question him about the plot by the Watergate conspirators to crack open his office safe.

This contained private memos in Howard Hughes' handwriting, which the eccentric billionaire's henchmen would like to get. The prosecutors are curious about the strange, undercover cooperation between the Hughes organization and the Watergate team.

Greenspun told the prosecutors, according to Justice Department sources, that he was carrying the papers in his briefcase but wouldn't produce them. He said the papers belonged to his newspaper and, therefore, were protected by the First Amendment. As a matter of principle, he said, he wouldn't cooperate.

Food operations agree to roll back

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service said Thursday that three food operations in Missouri and Illinois have agreed to roll back prices to ceiling levels and make refunds to their customers to the tune of $27,000.

The McHenry Meat Co. of St. Louis agreed to the legal meat ceiling level and will refund about $20,000 to its customers, according to St. Louis District Director A.W. McCanless. The refunds were for prices paid in excess of the ceiling price for beef products, the IRS said.

About $5,600 will be refunded to customers at the commissary at Chanute Air Force Base in Rantoul, Ill., which rolled back its price on ground beef, the IRS reported.

The third firm, Wetterau, Inc., of St. Louis, agreed to refund $2,090 to retailers for overpricing of some produce items, the federal agency added.

The IRS added that 20 complaints were received saying that St. Louis area service stations had increased gasoline prices above the ceiling price during a recent four-day shutdown by some dealers.

Only two of the stations were found to be charging an increased price during the protest closings, the IRS said.

Identity of body sought

KENNETT— The body of an unidentified man has been found in Cook County, Ill., near Chicago, bearing the stub of a bus ticket issued Sept. 18 in Kennett.

Dunklin County Deputy Sheriff R. R. Copenhagen said Thursday he had received a call from Cook County authorities requesting information on the man.

He said the ticket seller at Union Bus Depot in Kennett could not remember who had purchased the ticket, but did remember someone coming into the station asking how long it took the bus to get to Chicago, but he couldn't remember who.

Cook County authorities said the body was badly decomposed when it was found.

They said the man was around 25 to 30 years old and weighed around 200 pounds. He was wearing a red shirt with red knit slacks, waist size 38. He was wearing maroon socks, two- tone shoes and a white belt. His shoes were size 9 1/2.

Copenhagen said no identification was found on the body, only the bus ticket stub.

Youth event set tonight, homecoming Sunday

Smith Street Church of God, 420 Smith St., will be the scene of two major activities this weekend, a Youth Crusade tonight and annual all- day homecoming services Sunday, according to the Rev. R. C. Martin, pastor.

Homecoming activities Sunday will include the Rev. R. D. Harris of St. Louis, overseer of the Church of God in Missouri, as guest speaker for the 11 a.m. worship sevice, lunch at the church at noon and this month's meeting of the Scott County Singing Convention at 2 p.m., featuring the Wallace Family of Granite City, Ill.

Evangelist Billy J. O'Neal, a dynamic youth speaker and singer, and recording artists Bob and Carol Champion, an outstanding husband and wife duo, will join their talents for tonight. Youth Crusade.

The speaker for the youth crusade, the Rev. Mr. O'Neal is the state youth, Christian education and evangelism director for The Church of God in Missouri with executive offices in St. Louis.

The young minister has worked with young people for more than 10 years and has been the featured speaker in youth gatherings across the country. Because of his effective communication with youth, his work has taken him to Europe, Haiti, Mexico and the Hold Land.

The Rev. Mr. O'Neal also has a singing ministry and has recently released his first recording.

Bob and Carol Champion are involved in radio, television and recording (five albums to their credit), as well as concert appearances which have taken them virtually all over the world. Their most recent overseas tour took them through Europe and South Africa. Their dedication in presenting the gospel of Jesus Christ through the medium of musical outreach also takes them to high schools, colleges, coffee houses, prisons, youth gatherings and churches around the world.

Although a young couple, they are appreciated by audiences at both ends of the age spectrum, capably playing and singing music of any style- contemporary, gospel, or traditional.

Both come from strong musical backgrounds. He was a nightclub entertainer before committing his life to Christ. She made a commitment of her life at an early age and has been involved in musical evangelism on a professional level most of her life.

They sing both solo and duet and are accompanied by Mrs. Champion playing a Hammond computer organ. He is a master musician of the saxophone family which has earned him the title of "Mr. Gospel Sax" for several years. On some occasions he plays two saxophones at one time.

YOUTH CRUSADE

Rev. Billy J. O' Neal

Sharing Jesus will be the theme of the Youth Crusade which will be held at the SMITH ST. CHURCH OF GOD FRIDAY NIGHT, OCTOBER 5th at 7:30 p.m.

Recording artists Bob & Carol Champion will be presenting their musical outreach ministry.

Speaker for the Youth Crusade will be Rev. Billy J. O'Neal, Mo. State Youth Director of the Church of God.

Everyone is cordially invited.

All-day event planned Sunday at Morehouse

MOREHOUSE-- All day homecoming services Sunday at the Morehouse General Baptist Church will feature The New Sounds, a singing group from Kennett.

Former pastors and members are especially invited to attend, according to the Rev. W. H. Worth, pastor.

MILHAUD COMPOSES FOR COLLEGE

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — Dickinson College's 200th commencement weekend this year included the premiere of "Promesse de Dieu" by French composer Darius Milhaud.

Milhaud accepted the commission for the work in 1971 and completed it in January 1972, while living in Paris.

It is an a capella choral work in four movements. Its text, in Latin, is from the Biblical books of Isaiah and Ezekiel. Performance was by 40 students from the Dickinson College chapel choir and the Collegium Musicum.

LAW and GOSPEL

Paul's letter to the Roman church will concern us for this month. This church was young, like a child, and in need of guidance. In these letters Paul seeks to provide the needed guidelines.

Paul was a busy man, occupied with his extensive travels and significant writings. It is also necessary to recall that the Christian faith was something new for these persons. They did not have the historical background that we have to support us today.

A small group of followers were involved in Rome. Paul's concern was immediate. Little did he realize the lasting importance of such letters.

Paul 's message was direct According to Eric L. Titus, "Paul is consistent in his view that if a man holds to the Law, and pursues it as the way of life, he must live by the Law and accept its consequences."

Cicero said that true law "is of universal application, unchanging and everlasting." And Reinhold Niebuhr wrote three decades ago that "Law cannot restrain evil; for the freedom of man is such that he can make the keeping of the law the instrument of evil."

In today's lesson we are reminded that the law brings us an awareness of sin. Yet there are the cynics who say man does not refrain from committing sin because it is sinful; he refrains because he is afraid he will be caught.

Persons who can really be classified as the real believers of Christ seek to keep the law not as a way of salvation but as an expression of the will of God for His gospel.

Obeying the laws is a difficult task for all individuals. Many of today's uprisings are in protest of laws the persons feel are outdated or inappropriate in today's society.

It is a challenge for us to find new ways to express God's righteousness in practical things in everyday life.

God first made man perfect. But when sin came into the world, man became unrighteous. Still, God didn't reject man. He gave him a second chance through Christ.

Pauls' main point here is that our failure to keep the law brings guilt and condemnation. Earlier we were reminded that if we follow the Ten Commandments we will be better and happier persons.

God makes us accountable. We have freedom to choose which path we will take. We are accountable before God when we break His laws.

Yet Paul stresses the idea that we don't get to Heaven merely by following Gods' laws 100%. But when we admit defeat here we are on the way to salvation, having taken the first step.

God gives righteousness on the basis of our faith rather than for our works. Thus we need to double-check our motives.

Why, for example, do we go to church?

Why, for example, do we read the Bible?

Youths' need for love and acceptance contributes to his readiness to perceive that God loves all persons, unqualified by who they are or by what they have done.

Paul's life offers many examples for one to follow. His concern for the people he once had persecuted offers a challenge for all of us.

Paul voiced concern for others even though this was not always appreciated by them. Next week we will study "Reconciliation Through Christ" and review more of his suggestions for more effective churches with more faithful members.

Minister, laymen to visit Africa

The Rev. Grady Etheridge, pastor of Miner Baptist Church, and three Southeast Missouri laymen will depart Oct. 30 for a month - long - evangelistic tour of Africa for the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Accompanying the Rev. Mr. Etheridge will be C. E. Cantrell of Sikeston Route One, J. O. Brasher of Malden and Dale Davalult of Marble Hill. A fourth Missourian going on the tour will be B. B. Campbell of Iberia.

The tour will include stops in London, Rome and four countries in Africa.

The lay members of the touring party will conduct a lay witness program in Nigeria. In addition to the lay witness program, city-wide and area- wide evangelistic crusades will be conducted by several hundred Baptists and other evangelical church groups in the Nigerian cities of Ogbomosho, Kaduna and Ibadan.

On the trip home the tour party will have stops in Accra, Ghana; Abijan, Ivory Coast; and Monrovia, Liberia, where one- night evangelistic meetings will be conducted in the Baptist churches.

The group will arrive home in early December.

Rev. Grady Etheridge

Lay witness study planned next week

Charleston Baptist Association will sponsor a lay witness program next Monday through Thursday nights at Miner Baptist Church.

The sessions will begin at 7 p.m. and end at 9 o'clock each evening with the Rev. John Crutchfield of Jefferson City, secretary of evangelism for Missouri Baptist Convention, will be the study leader and main speaker.

The Rev. Grady Etheridge, chairman of evangelism for Charleston Baptist Association and pastor of Miner Baptist Church, says all interested lay people -- men or women -- from the area may participate.

Laymen and laywomen from as far away as Jefferson City, Lake of the Ozarks and O'Fallon are planning to attend, as well as from the Charleston association area of Scott, Mississippi and a portion of New Madrid counties, the Rev. Mr. Etheridge said.

"This new approach to witnessing has "caught on" and is being used throughout the world to teach church members how to get involved in Christian witnessing as given in the New Testament," he added.

Nursery care will be provided each night.

26th annual homecoming set Sunday

BERTRAND-- First General Baptist Church of Bertrand will host its 26th annual homecoming Sunday, featuring a basket lunch after the morning worship service and a singing service at 2 p.m.

The High Point Harmoneers of Paducah, Ky., will be featured during the afternoon singing service.

Former pastors have been invited to join church members and friends for the annual event. The Rev. Robert I. Jones is the present pastor.

New deacon to be ordained at Trinity

An ordination service will be conducted at 6:30 p.m. Sunday at Trinity Baptist Church, Highway 61 North, in which Theo Poindexter will be ordained to the office of deacon.

Dr. H. L. McClanahan of Jefferson City, interim executive secretary of the Missouri Baptist Convention, will be in the pulpit for both Sunday morning and night services, and Dr. Thomas Messer of Cape Girardeau will also be a guest for the ordination service. Howard Reed is chairman of deacons.

Dexter church plans to build new facilities

DEXTER— First Christian Church has announced plans to build a new church complex and plans have begun to raise funds to meet the needs of the new building.

The pastor, Rev. Stanley Land, said a consultant, Harold Fuss of Evanston, Ill., has been hired and will be in Dexter for three weeks to meet with church members concerning early plans for the building campaign.

Named as general chairman of the new building program are Mr. and Mrs. Bob Blankenship.

Blodgett pastor honored for attendance record

BLODGETT — The Rev. Jimmie Edmondson of Sikeston Route Two, Sunday received a 26th year lapel pin bar from the congregation of First Baptist Church of Blodgett as special recognition for 26 years of attendance at Sunday School without missing a Sunday.

The Rev. Mr. Edmondson is pastor of the church. He began his 26 years of perfect attendance at the nearby New Savannah Baptist Church and has been pastor of the Blodgett church for 20 years with the exception of six and a half months at Salcedo Baptist Church.

He has been preaching for slightly over 28 years.

Rev. Jimmie Edmondson

Nazarenes to dedicate new building at Malden

MALDEN— Dedication services and an open house will be held Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. at the new Church of the Nazarene facility west of Malden on Highway J.

Guest speaker for the services will be Dr. Eugene Stowe, of Kansas City, general superintendent of the Church of the Nazarene.

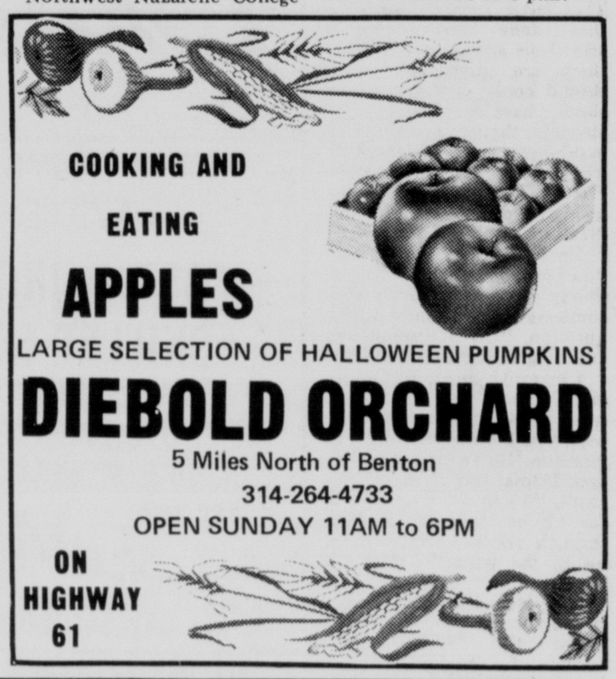
Dr. Stowe was chosen for the highest elective office in the church at the 17th quadrennial General Assembly at Kansas City in June 1968. He has served two years as president of the Nazarene Theological Seminary at Kansas City.

He also served as pastor of College Church at Northwest Nazarene College in Nampa, Idaho, and taught six years in the department of religion at the college. He has pastored several other churches and was president of the denomination's young people's society for four years 1956- 60 and a member of the general board of the church during the same time.

He was born at Council Bluffs, Iowa, and graduated from Pasadena College in Pasadena, Calif., where he also has done graduate work. He is the author of a book, "The Spiritual Glow."

The Rev. M. Ray Snow is pastor of the Malden church.

Persons unable to attend the dedication services are welcome to attend the open house from 3:30 to 5 p.m.



The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

103. God Commissions Gideon

After Barak and Deborah had defeated King Jabin and Sisera, peace came to the land for forty years. Then the people of Israel once more turned to worship other gods, and once again the Lord permitted their enemies to harass them. Thus the Midianites forced the children of Israel to live in caves and dens in the mountains, and the Midianites utterly destroyed the crops and sustenance of the Israelites. After seven years of terrible suffering, the children of Israel cried to the Lord for help.

One day the Angel of the Lord came and sat beneath the oak tree in Ophrah, where Gideon, the son of Joash, threshed wheat. "And the angel of the Lord appeared unto him, and said unto him, The Lord is with thee, thou mighty man of valour." (Judges 6:12) But Gideon doubted and said that if the Lord were with his people, then why had all the misfortunes befallen them.

Then the Lord commanded Gideon to go and save the people from the Midianites. Gideon hesitated to commit himself, even though he was assured that the Lord would be with him. Finally, Gideon asked for a miracle by which he might be certain of the favor he had found in God's sight. He then hurried home, and soon returned with a roasted young goat, unleavened cakes of bread, and broth.

WHAT IS WITNESSING?

Ann Landers

Screwballs found in fall professions

Dear Ann Landers: Your letter from the "Anonymous Lady" who is having an affair with her doctor really tore it. My husband called it to my attention the first thing this morning.

For eight years I've been trying to convince the dolt that I should have an annual physical, complete with Pap test. I've told him repeatedly that a nurse is always present during these examinations and that my gynecologist is very impersonal and highly ethical.

My husband has the crazy idea that most doctors fool around with their women patients during examinations and the women love it. In recent years I've avoided telling my husband about my visits to the doctor because it always ended up with him making some rotten, uncalled- for remark and he wouldn't speak to me for three days.

That idiotic letter from the nut who is carrying on with her crazy doctor (she asked if she should tell her psychiatrist or would he sic the Medical Society on him), opened up that old can of worms.

I enjoy your column usually, but not today.--- Miffed In Mpls.

Dear Miff: Anyone who reads Ann Landers regularly is sure to run into a letter that can be used against somebody, sooner or later.

This column touches on every facet of life, the bizarre and the commonplace, the best in human nature and the worst. That letter proved once again that there are plenty of screwballs around and some of them are physicians, which should come as no surprise. I should have emphasized more strongly that the basis for a good therapeutic relationship is complete confidence. "Secrets" between a patient and a psychiatrist are never divulged.

Dear Ann Landers: Don't you have any Scottish friends? Surely you could have asked someone to help you with that question, "Do Scotsmen wear anything under their kilts?"

I herewith quote the answer given to me by an old major who taught me to play the bagpipes. I asked him the same question. He replied, "I dinna ken, laddie, but if there's war again, I'll join the English army for I'll be damned if I'll go through another winter naked up to the waist."--- Just Call Me Mac

Dear Mac: I've yet to meet a true Scotsman who would have joined the English army because of a few icy blasts--- or for any OTHER reason!

Dear Ann: All soft soap aside, I can't go along with your mushy approval of the woman who telephoned her gray haired mother from the office umpteen times a day.

Any woman who uses a business phone for personal calls is guilty of gross abuse of office equipment. She is also using the boss's time. He is not paying her to telephone her mother.

Time spent on the phone is time NOT spent doing the work for which she was hired. This is unfair to the other employes in that office, because obviously someone must do it. You goofed, Annabell.-- A Worker, Not A talker

Dear Worker: Sorry, I don't agree. There are values here that outweight the ones you've mentioned. Some phone calls take less time than is required to write a letter to Ann Landers, such as the one you just wrote--- on office stationery and, I'll bet, on office time.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers's booklet, "Dating Do's And Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 35c in coing along with a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope and your request to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Ill. 60654.

YOUR VOICE IS HEARD

Lawmakers in Washington and Jefferson City listen to MFA because it's the voice of 152,000 farmers and many urban Missourians with common interests. MFA spokesmen are in action regularly before U.S. Congressional Committees, making your voice heard on issues that effect your life. We've urged:

★ 1973 Farm Act with a farm commodity reserve and meaningful farm price supports.

★ Continuation of rural electric programs through low-interest loans.

★ Making available planning and financial assistance for rural communities through the new Rural Development Act.

★ And, in Missouri, we're actively promoting state laws to improve schools, roads, safety and medical care.

Yes, your voice is heard because MFA goes all the way. Action for all rural and town neighbors.

Elderly men die waiting in hospital; no one notices

MIAMI (AP) — Volton Jordan and Clarence Brinson were critically ill, homeless and penniless. They died sitting in wheelchairs in a hospital emergency ward, and no one noticed for hours.

Hospital officials said both men had been dead for several hours before someone noticed them slumped over in their wheelchairs this past week.

Brinson and Jordan, like many other destitute and elderly people, had been brought to the busy corridors of Jackson Memorial Hospital to wait until nursing home space could be found.

"There is no dignity for these people," a Jackson Hospital administrator said. "They are a forgotten breed. They have no place to go. This is their home until they find a place."

Officials said Brinson, 54, had been waiting three days in the hospital. Jordan, 60, had been sitting in his wheelchair for two days. A medical examiner said Jordan died last Friday of heart disease, with other complications. He said Brinson died last Tuesday of chronic pulmonary disease.

Ten patients like Brinson and Jordan were waiting at the hospital Sunday.

They are indigent elderly, dependent upon public money. They are put in wheelchairs in the hospital's emergency ward, brought there from private homes and residential hotels to wait for admittance to nursing homes that will accept welfare patients.

Officials say that process normally takes two or three days. It can be longer. The patients sit and wait until a home is found.

"We consider them boarders rather than patients," hospital spokesman Bill Keck said of the welfare patients. "They are in wheelchairs because we have no beds to admit them.

"Nurses and nurse assistants feed them three times a day and care for any other needs that boarders may request."

Keck said he knew of no other cases like Brinson and Jordan in which patients had died in their wheelchairs and gone unnoticed for several hours.

Officials say finding nursing home beds for the indigent is becoming more difficult because many homes say they can't afford to keep patients for the $13.50 a day the county pays them.

They said the 10 patients who were waiting Sunday for a nursing home bed is about the average number of welfare "boarders" at the hospital. Earlier this year it was worse.

At one time about 30 "boarders" were stacked up in the waiting room. That problem was solved when the county raised from $11.50 to $13.50 the daily allowance it would pay nursing homes to take the patients.

Teamsters approve contract

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A strike that left St. Louis without its two daily newspapers for 44 days ended Thursday night when Teamsters overwhelmingly approved a new three-year contract with the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The pact, which included a $1.10 hourly pay increase over the contract's life and a compromise formula on the use of dockhands, was passed by a 180 to 5 margin during a ratification meeting by Teamster Union Local 610. Under the old contract, workers were paid $6.58 per hour.

Newstands have been bare since Teamsters walked off the job Aug. 22, shutting down the Post and the St. Louis Globe-Democrat which is printed by the Post under contract.

The Globe-Democrat said it hoped to be back on the streets Monday morning and the first weekend edition of the Post-Dispatch in seven weeks was to be printed for Sunday.

"Sure I'm glad to be going back to work," a delivery truck driver said as he left the ratification meeting. "I've been ready to go back since the first day."

A dispute over the use of dockhands at the Post automated printing plant in St. Louis County was the main stumbling block in reaching a settlement, which finally came after a 12-hour marathon bargaining session that ended early Thursday.

Harland Horn, Teamster secretary-treasurer, said the new contract represents a compromise in which the dockhands' jobs are protected but the number of shifts they are allowed to work each week is reduced.

"We had to give a lot on the issue, but all the jobs are protected," said John Metz, union vice president.

A Post-Dispatch spokesman said the new pact means that force reduction will be achieved through "attrition or inducement or by voluntary reassignment of dockhands to drivers' positions."

"The agreement confirmed management's right to reduce the force of dockhands following the introduction of automated equipment," the spokesman added.

The union represents about 170 delivery truck drivers and 32 dockhands. The strike idled about 2,000 employes at the Post and another 250 at the Globe.

An attorney was appointed for Peterson and his bond was set at $2,500. The other two youths, who were represented by counsel, were released on their own recognizance.

The three were arrested Sept. 26 following a break-in at Cecil's Tobacco Store on North Locust Street in Charleston and the theft of $8 in change, a carton of cigarettes, four bottles of vodka and three bottles of wine.

An attorney was appointed for Buck Stacy of East Prairie for representation on a charge of possession of a dangerous and deadly weapon while in an intoxicated condition. He was released on $1,000 bond and the case was continued to Oct. 11.

An attorney was also appointed to represent Charles Shands on a felony charge of exhibiting and flourishing a dangerous and deadly weapon and his case was continued to Oct. 11. Shands is free on $2,500 bond.

James Knupp entered a plea of not guilty to a nonsupport charge and his case was continued to Oct. 11. Knupp is free on $500 bond.

Jacob Lee Myres of Cape Girardeau, charged with a second offense of driving while intoxicated, was fined $123.20, received a 30-day suspended sentence and was placed on one-year probation.

Charles Eugene McCowen of Mounds City, Ill. paid a $123.20 fine on charge of driving while intoxicated.

Other misdemeanor charges and fines included: Jimmie Dale Loflin of Anniston, no operator's license, $10 fine plus costs and suspended five day jail sentence; Della Ware, disturbing the peace, $36.20; and Elias Morgan of Rector, Ark., allowing an unlicensed driver to operate his car, $27.70.

In a deliquent income tax suit (1968) default judgment for $153.08 plus court costs was awarded the state from S. M. and M.L. Campbell of Dorena.

Default judgment for $198.80 and costs was awarded the state in a deliquent income tax suit (1968) against Howard Ray Williams of East Prairie.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Rosie Lee Robinson of East Prairie after she failed to appear on a careless and imprudent driving charge.

Other cases continued to Oct. 11 were: Ronnie Lane and Billy Ray Nolen of East Prairie, burglary and stealing; Pleas Stark of Charleston, leaving the scene of an accident; and James Wheatley, insufficient funds check and leaving the scene of an accident. A disturbing the peace charge against James Robert Thomas was continued to Oct. 18.

Also appearing before Judge Brown this week were: Billy Wayne Mays, improper registration, $21; Leroy Smithson, written plea of guilty to improper or incomplete inspection; $21; Lonnie Lee Hart, no Missouri special fuel or trip permit, $36; Kenneth Wayne Woods, careless and imprudent driving, $31; Maxine Elizabeth Laster, speeding, $26; Jackie Owen Easter, speeding, $41; Elbert Hanor, failure to stop at stop sign, $26; and Melvin Junior Guinn, speeding, $31.

VIENNA'S YOUNG AGAIN

VIENNA (AP) — Vienna's new Mayor, Leopold Gratz, at age 43, is the youngest chief executive of the Austrian capital since 1774. He is also only the third mayor in Vienna's more than 2,000-year history to have Leopold for a first name.

Among the first to congratulate Gratz were the chimney sweeps, who came from all over Austria in their working clothes.

In Vienna, seeing a chimney sweep means good luck.

Some are supposed to be fat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fatties who spend hours and days and weeks bicycling in place, doing pushups, lifting weights and sitting in steam baths in hopes of achieving the "Twiggy" look may be wasting their time.

Same for skinny people who eat and eat in anticipation of being "pleasingly plump."

They may be permanently the way they are for the very good reason that they're supposed to be, according to Dr. Myron Winick of Columbia University's Institute of Human Nutrition.

Speaking to a nutrition seminar Monday, Winick said doctors have long recognized two kinds of fat people: Those who can lose weight and maintain their new slim look and those who, while they may have lost weight on a strict diet, "zoomed right back up."

He said this is because they developed a certain number of fat cells during their formative years and now they're stuck with them.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Sterilization for young couple?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am 26 years old and my husband is 30. We have two lovely children and we have both decided that we definitely do not want any more children.

The problem is I can no longer take birth control pills. We have talked at great length together about either me having my tubes tied or him having a vasectomy. We haven't talked to our family doctor as yet. I would first like to know the pros and cons and which would be the best.

I would like to have the operation performed on me because I have read a man sometimes develops emotional problems, or feels he loses his manhood. Also, if I were ever left alone with my two children because of death or divorce I still would not want any more family if I were to remarry. If a man were left alone, with or without two children, and were to remarry he would, more than likely, marry someone younger than himself and want more children.

My husband doesn't seem to care one way or another. All I really want is what will be best for both of us.

Please print an article on this and the different methods. I know of several of our friends who are also thinking of taking one of these courses of action.

Dear Reader — I have written on both of these procedures in the past. In a nutshell, despite occasional scare reports and actual rare poor results, the vasectomy is a very safe effective procedure — it should also be considered permanent. Your doctor can fill you in on the details. There are some changes in the testicles, but it doesn't seem to affect the production of male hormone and only affects the ability to form sperm. Most men who are well informed on the nature of the simple operation and understand it has no psychological problems afterward, unless they had one to begin with.

The female operation of tying the tubes is very much like the vasectomy in its effects. The one big difference is that the ova can be released freely into the abdominal cavity and do not build up or get blocked in a woman's ovary. The sperm cells are literally blocked up in a man's testicle after the operation, which I might add has not proved to be a big problem in most cases.

Having the tubes tied should also be considered as permanent. In both operations the procedure can be reversed surgically in some cases, but it is a slim chance so it is better to consider it as permanent if you have that done.

I am not going to encourage you to have either one done. Couples who have a nice family sometimes have a major change in life that causes them to want more children. If you lost one or both of your children in an automobile or even a school bus accident you would surely want more children. And, if you did remarry perhaps your new husband would want some children from his marriage. I rather like the idea of a birth control procedure that can be undone.

If you can't take the pill I wish you would consider the IUD (Intra Uterine Device). It is easily put in place and it has a very low incidence of complications and is about as effective as the pill. There will be no problems from hormones that may have caused you to stop the pill. You'll never know it is there, and if you then change your mind, you can still have children. It is worth a try. And it's cheaper too.

Stricter controls announced

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Stricter controls on the buying and using of state vehicles were announced Monday by Robert L. Jamss, assistant to Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

James, who heads the Office of Administration, said it will mean more efficient use of the vehicles and reduction of overall costs.

Two regulations were issued on the use of vehicles:

—They will not be used for non-state business. Personal trips, family vacations and lending of the vehicles are prohibited.

—All state vehicles will be driven in accordance with state laws and at speeds consistent with Gov. Bond's memorandum on energy conservation. In June, Bond called for highway travel at reduced speeds to conserve fuel and for agencies to buy smaller, more economical vehicles.

Misuse reports will be forwarded to agency directors for written explanations and repeated misuse is grounds for disciplinary action, James said.

Eagleton pleased by mandatory allocation

WASHINGTON, D. C.— Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton (D- Mo.) said today that he was very pleased with the decision of the Cost of Living Council to impose mandatory allocation of heating oil and propane.

The action by John A. Love, energy advisor to the President, was taken under authorization granted by legislation authored by Eagleton and passed by Congress last April.

Foreseeing the shortage, Sen. Eagleton introduced the amendment, to the Economic Stabilization Act, authorizing the President to establish a system for the equitable allocation of scarce petroleum products.

That authority allowed establishment of either a madatory or voluntary allocation system and the Administration chose voluntary.

Since early summer, Eagleton and several other senators repeatedly urged the Administration to change to a mandatory system, since the voluntary one was clearly not working.

Mandatory allocation will ensure that schools, hospitals, farms and homes will be on a priority list to receive fuel, Eagleton said.

With winter approaching, he said, he had received numerous complaints from farmers, school districts, and other vital public agencies unable to obtain necessary fuel.

Noting that Missouri is the second largest propane user of all the states, Eagleton said, "Mandatory allocation of fuel is necessary to forestall serious hardship for farmers drying grain and for homeowners this winter. I would hope the Administration will now bend every effort to increasing our overall supply of these fuels by whatever means possible."

Symington under fire for health care criticism

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — An official of the Missouri Association of Osteopathic Surgeons and Physicians has criticized Rep. James Symington, D-Mo., because of the congressman's recent statements on inadequate and costly health care.

Edward Borman, executive secretary of the association, said he sent a letter to Symington, telling him his speech before the Women's National Democratic Club contained misinformation, inaccuracies and gross exaggerations.

Symington told the group that the nation's health care programs were sub-par, unless a person is rich, gets sick at the right time, speaks the doctor's language or has adequate health insurance.

Borman took issue with Symington's statement that it costs $100 a day in a hospital.

Woman accused in stabbing bound over to Circuit Court

BLOOMFIELD — Maggie Saylors was bound over to Circuit Court following a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Judge Koss Blomeyer.

Mrs. Saylors is accused of the felonious stabbing of Glenda Smith of Bernie. Mrs. Smith testified that Mrs. Saylors and her minor sister took her to a river near the Powe community on the pretense of going to the grocery store. She said the minor girl beat her while Mrs. Saylors stabbed her. They then left Mrs. Smith alone at the river, at which time she attempted to walk home.

She was picked up by a man who was passing by, who called an ambulance which took her to the Dexter Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Smith testified that the argument started over a Dexter man Mrs. Saylors had been seeing. Mrs. Saylors remains under $2,000 bond.

Three counts of burglary and stealing were dismissed against Billy Dale Swinney of Advance and amended information was entered to reduce the charges to accessory after the fact, following three separate preliminary hearings.

A 15- year- old Advance youth testified that he committed the burglaries along with another Advance youth and that Swinney had kept the money for them. The youths admitted burglary of two Advance taverns and a skating rink and swimming pool, also at Advance. The youths testified that approximately $250 in cash, two cases of beer, two boxes of cigars and tools were taken in the three burglaries.

D. J. Cecial, owner of Cecial's Tavern, testified however, that approximately $450 was taken from his place.

The case against Terry Holt of Essex was dismissed due to the fact that Holt had been convicted and sentenced to custody of the Missouri Department of Corrections in a trial held in Circuit Court Wednesday on another charge of burglary and stealing. Holt was charged with the armed robbery of the Circle City grocery store.

In a trial by court for John Lee Grimes of Dexter, Grimes was ordered to pay $15 per week for the support of his minor children and is to appear in court Dec. 6 with receipts showing that he has paid or to show just cause why he cannot pay.

Homer Wayne Hemby and Merle Edward Henby, both of Puxico, were found guilty of trespassing on the Mingo Job Corps Center near Puxico and were fined $10 each and given 60- day suspended jail sentences.

Doyle Ray Parks was found guilty of nonsupport of his two minor children and was ordered to pay $15 per week and given a 60- day suspended jail sentence. Parks is to report back to court on Dec. 6 with receipts showing that he has made payment.

An attorney appearing on behalf of Terry Blocker of Dexter, charged with making obscene telephone calls, filed for a change of judge.

Five others paid fines for traffic violations: Larry Edgar Hanner of Dexter, no operator's license, $10; Doyne Monroe Marion of Chaffee, defective brakes, $5; Clarence Layton of Bloomfield, no operator's license, $5 and careless and imprudent driving, $15; Lyman Jerry Jines of Dexter, defective brakes, $10, and Granfranco Baldin, Kansas City, improper vehicle plates, $10.

Big companies blamed for shortage

CAIRO, Ill. — The city of Cairo faces a shortage of natural gas this winter, according to Roy Collins, general manager of Cairo Public Utilities Co., if the gas suppliers don't get the rate incrase they're requesting.

"There's no shortage of natural gas," Collins said Thursday morning. "The gas is there, but the big companies just aren't going to sell their product for less than it cost them to produce it."

In the meantime, the consumer is caught in the middle. "Cairo customers are now experiencing a curtailment of their natural gas usage," Collins continued. "The city is presently limited to 5,000 cubic feet of gas per customer per day. If we exceed that amount, we will be penalized at the rate of $10 per 1,000 cubic feet, instead of the 55 cents per 1,000 cubic feet we're now charged."

Hearings are now in progress in Washington, Collins said, before the Federal Power Commission. No relief in the gas shortage is anticipated until the commission hands down their ruling on the requested price hike.

Users of natural gas have, in the past, been divided into nine priority groups. At the top of the list, or those who get first chance at the available gas, are homes, hospitals, and small commercial establishments. The second priority includes any customers using over 50,000 cubic feet of gas per day. The number three priority group includes users of more than 1,500,000 cubic feet of natural gas.

The last group includes the bigger area businesses such as Burkart Mfg., Co. and Bunge Corp. "We've already informed those companies that we can interrupt their gas service at any time after Nov. 16." Therefore, should the city get into a real bind, and get near the limit for natural gas usage, their operations will be halted indefinitely.

Also included in the number three priority group is schools, where gas service can be interrupted without further notice after that date.

The federal government, Collins said, is considering cutting the priorities listing from nine to five groupings.

The present crisis is one that the federal government has been warned of for over two years, but is only now attempting to correct the situation, Collins said.

For persons constructing new homes in the Cairo area, Collins had some good news and some bad news. If the person is building a home on a lot where an older house formerly stood, and that home had natural gas, then there will be no problem obtaining natural gas.

However, if the homebuilder is comtemplating construction of a home on a new lot, then there's no hope of getting gas for his home.

The situation can possibly move from bad to worse this winter when the cold weather hits the area. "We'll have to request that people keep their thermostats lower this winter. If they don't then we might have to put a limit on the cubic feet they can use per month."

6 injured in area traffic accidents

Six persons were injured in five traffic accidents in the Bootheel area Thursday, the highway patrol said today.

Brosia Arnett, 63, and his sister, Anita Rae Arnett, 37 of Drumright, Okla. were injured at 2:35 p.m. 15 miles northwest of Poplar Bluff on Highway 60 when Arnett's car ran off the side of the road and overturned several times.

Arnett received severe facial cuts and possible internal injuries and Miss Arnett suffered severe cuts. Both were taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Two vehicles collided at 1 p.m., three- tenths of a mile west of Wyatt on Highway 60 when a truck driven by John Enos Crites, 46, of Cape Girardeau went out of control and was struck in the side by a car driven by John Edward Greenway, 56, of Whitmore Lake, Mich. The patrol said Greenway's car was following the truck when it went out of control.

Greenway received a concussion, headcuts, bruises and scratches and was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Two persons were injured in two nearly simultaneous accidents at 1:30 p.m. three miles south of Hayti on Highway 61.

The first accident occurred when a southbound car driven by James F. Boardman, 65, of Bangor, Mich., traveling fast on wet pavement, ran off the road on a curve and down into a ditch on the right side of the road. A few minutes later, a pickup driven by Laura Kay Barrett, 18, of Vicksburg, Miss. re- enacted the previous accident, running her car off the road into the ditch and striking the Boardman car.

Boardman received a possible neck injury and Miss Barrett suffered bruises on her back. Both were taken to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital in Hayti.

Debra Ann Brown, 21, of Malden was injured at 1:25 p.m. on a township road one mile south of Glennonville when she attempted to pass another car, lostcontrol on loose gravel and ran off the road and struck a tree.

She received facial bruises and was taken to Lucy Lee Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

However, both Halstead and Pieri said propane gas for standby systems is short, also.

Besides Noranda and Federal Mogul, representatives of American Greetings of Osceola, Ark., Blytheville Air Force Base, Blytheville Canning Company, Charles Lowrance Co. of Grider, Ark., Crompton - Osceola and Delta Products Co. of Osceola, Langston Enterprises of Blytheville, National Alfalfa of Steele and Charleston, Osceola Products, Paymaster Oil Co. of Osceola and Randall Co. of Blytheville met with the utility representatives.

Ark-Mo previously announced that all gas supplied to municipal power generating plants has been cut off.

The cutoff was made necessary, Ark-Mo officials said, because the utility's supply is being sharply curtailed by its suppliers and steps must be taken to ensure gas to homes, hospitals and schools.

Cards hope to improve offense

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "We want to do more things," the general manager of the also-ran St. Louis Cardinals during this year's daffy National League East race says.

And Bing Devine, surveying what the Cards need most, points to offense as the key to any St. Louis title hopes for 1974.

"Normally the way you win is with balance," insisted Devine, who in two terms has constructed one Cardinals world champion and one pennant winner.

"And to achieve balance," he added, "we need a solid production hitter in the middle of the lineup."

The Cards, who finished runnersup to the New York Mets in the NL East this season, were last in the league with 75 home runs and short of power behind Ted Simmons' 91 RBI.

"But I don't say we need a power hitter," Devine hastened to emphasize. "Those are hard to come by. What we need is someone to take the pressure off Simmons and Joe Torre."

Simmons, who hit in the cleanup spot, was the Cards' leader with a .310 average and leadoff man Lou Brock hit .297 with 63 RBI.

Second baseman Ted Sizemore boosted his average to .282 and had 54 RBI but Torre, who usually hit behind Simmons fell off to 69 RBI despite his .287 average.

"Torre tried to play apparently for a month with a shoulder injury that contributed to his lack of runs batted in," Devine said.

"But I would guess our biggest deficiency insofar as production is concerned is at first base," he added in reference to the position played both by Torre and Tim McCarver.

Devine defines the balance he feels so necessary as including speed, offense, pitching and defense. "I guess you could say speed and offense go together and that pitching and defense go together," he said. "I don't think you can win with just one.

"But if you don't score runs for pitchers," he added, "sooner or later the pressure will catch up with them."

Cardinals shortcomings, according to Devine, involved inability of front line pitchers to win in the closing weeks and the sputtering attack.

"Maybe sometimes it was aggravated by getting a run early and missing chances to score two or three more and put a game away," he noted.

Looking ahead to next year, Devine believes the Cards should be among the NL's best defensive clubs "particularly in the type of outfielders we have."

The loss of pitching ace Bob Gibson should not have brought about a demise this year, he said, because "When he went out we were leading and should have pulled away."

If all East Division clubs stayed the same, Devine ventured, he would pick Pittsburgh to win the title in '74.

"We were all even this year," he noted. "I can't believe Pittsburgh's pitching will fail as much next year.

Their pitching was never good, but it was good enough."

CHICAGO — Whitey Lockman was rehired by the Chicago Cubs as manager for the 1974 season.

Jaynes sounds off

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Put on guard by Kansas quarterback David Jaynes' boast that "we can rip them up," the ninth-ranked Tennessee Volunteers set out Saturday afternoon to protect their nine-game winning streak against the Jaynes-led Jayhawks.

Jaynes says that after looking at films of Tennessee, he likes what he sees.

"Why, I can't wait until Saturday," he said. "Tennessee doesn't awe me. I think we can rip them up."

That's Joe Namath-type talk, inflamatory fodder for the Volunteers' bulletin board.

"Oh, no," Jaynes said, "I know their fans aren't thinking we can beat them. Auburn and Alabama are supposed to be their big games. They're thinking about our 4-7 record last year. I just hope their people go right on thinking that, right up to the end of the game. Man, are they going to be surprised."

The Vols haven't had much to say about Jaynes' comments.

"Let Mr. Jaynes do the talking, I'll do the kicking," said Tennessee kicking specialist Ricky Townsend. "You can talk all you want before a game, but it's what you do on the field that counts."

Jaynes has led Kansas to a 3-0 record this year, completing 32 of 60 passes for 425 yards.

The game will be the first meeting between the teams, but Vol Coach Bill Battle has seen some films of the Jayhawks' games last year that impressed him.

Battle says the films show "some of the doggondest throwing and catching I have ever seen."

"On the basis of that, I am not at all surprised at KU's fast start," he said.

Kansas Coach Don Fambrough says that Tennessee will be "the true gauge for us."

"We'll know after this game how good we really are because Tennessee is truly one of the real national powers and has a lot of prestige," Fambrough said. "This game will decide our strength."

The Vols, through three victories this season, have been led by quarterback Condredge Holloway. He teams with swift tailback Haskel Stanback in Tennessee's ground-oriented game. Stanback leads Vol runners with 62 carries for 238 yards.

Kansas' main running threat is Delvin Williams, who has gained 290 yards for a 5.2-yard average per game.

Jaynes says Kansas is a winner and "we'll still be a winner after we play Tennessee."

"I guarantee you, we aren't going to lose it," he said.

CINCINNATI (AP) — The New York Mets begin practicing in Cincinnati today for their Saturday National League playoff game against the Cincinnati Reds.

Warren will star

Basketball officially arrives in Southeast Missouri Oct. 19 when the world famous All- American Red Heads basektball team collides with the Lilbourn High School Faculty at 8 p.m. in Lilbourn gymnasium.

Headlining the Lilbourn squad will be former Parma all-stater, Larry Warren. Commonly known to his former teammates and fans as Ajax, the big burley 6-foot-3 loafer plans to resume where he left off nine years ago in high school... playing one end basketball.

It should be an interesting evening, especially since Warren was noted for pulling of opponents shorts and pinching during his high school and collegiate days.

Although somewhat over-weight and out-of-shape, Warren predicts he'll carry the LHS faculty to a rousing victory. But that remains to be seen.

Warren's main target on the night will be, Jolene Ammons, Red Head team captain, who is a veteran of more than 2,000 Professional Games - Long past the 20,000 points scored as a Professional - Traveled more than 2,000,000 miles as a member of the All American Red Heads. Coach Ammons in her 10th Season as an All American Red Head - Miss Ammons is the Playing Coach.

The All American Red Head Coach is an All American in every phase of the game of Basketball. One of America's Greatest Ball Handlers, Miss Ammons is a very dedicated Performer, a Disciplined Athlete and loves Basketball with a passion.

See this Great Girl Athlete in action when the Famous Girls Team Tangle with Lilbourn School Faculty. The Red Head Attraction is sponsored by the LHS Athletic Department. Date: October 19th; game time 8:00 p.m.

Big 8 war begins

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The team with the best running attack may come out on top Saturday when the Colorado Buffaloes and the Iowa State Cyclones collide at Ames, Iowa, in the season's first fireworks between two Big Eight Conference clubs.

Both Colorado and Iowa State have brilliant runners, Charlie Davis, freshman Billy Waddy and Bo Matthews of the Buffs and Mike Strachan and sophomore quarterback Wayne Stanley of the Cyclones.

Strachan is currently the league's No. 3 rusher, having carried 52 times for 212 yards. Matthews, 12th, has begged 197 yards on 32 thrusts and only last week ripped the Baylor defense for 140 yards in the Buffs' 52-28 triumph over the Bears. Stanley, with 197 yards on 24 rushes, is a notch below Matthews and also has completed 15 of 34 passes for another 255 yards.

Stanley leads the conference in total offense. Waddy, sharing the tailback role with Davis, has picked up 238 yards on 31 attempts.

Aside from the Buff-Cyclone league lid-lifter, there are big nonconference games on the schedule, two in particular certain to claim headline attention. The 15th-ranked Missouri Tigers invade 19th-rated Southern Methodist, and the Kanksas Jayhawks, so far the conference surprise with one of the nation's top dekfenses, move into Memphis, Tenn., to battle ninth-ranked Tennessee. All four teams have 3-0 records.

Elsewhere, second-ranked Nebraska gets its first road test at Minnesota, and sixth-ranked Oklahoma, which surprised last week by playing then top-ranked Southern California to a 7-7 deadlock, makes its first appearance at home against 17thranked Miami of Florida.

Oklahoma State, 11th ranked and leading the league in total offense, plays Texas Tech at Stillwater, Okla. Kansas State, with two consecutive shutouts, is host to Memphis State.

Like Kansas and Missouri, Nebraska and Oklahoma State have 3-0 marks. Oklahoma is 10-1 and Kansas State 2-1.

Colorado, 18th in the nation, has won two and lost one, and Iowa State has split two games.

"Iowa State indicated as early as last spring that Colorado was going to be a game in which they would make their best shot," says Buff Coach Eddie Crowder.

Coach Earle Bruce, in his first year at Iowa State, let it be known early the Cyclones had championship ambitions and regards the Colorado game as a good test.

SMU will throw Coach Dave Smith's version of the wishbone, the one he operated so successfully as the Oklahoma State boss last year, at Missouri. In three games, SMU has rushed for 1,301 yards and thrown only 14 passes.

"They've shown an awful lot of power," says Missouri Coach Al Onofrio, "both offensively and defensively thus far."

The Kansas Jayhawks, who have intercepted 10 passes and recovered eight fumbles, will attempt to blend Dave Jaynes' passes to Emmett Edwards and Bruce Adams with the running of Delvin Williams and Robert Miller in their biggest test so far. Tennessee also has one of the nation's best quarterbacks, Conredge Holloway.

In Minnesota, Nebraska, given a scare in its last two outings, will be facing a team that Kansas beat last week 34-19. The Cornhuskers should breathe easier Saturday although Coach Tom Osborne notes that Minnesota "runs the veer offense similar to the one run by North Carolina State which gave us some problems."

Even though Oklahoma is heavily favored over Miami, the Sooners are aware that the Hurricanes stopped Texas two weeks ago and, as Coach Barry Switzer says, "We know what Texas is." If Sooner halfback Joe Washington's injured left knee is ready, kmuch of the Sooners' anticipated problem should be solved.

Oklahoma State, averaging nearly 55 poiknts a game, has quarterback Brent Blackman and fullback George Palmer ready to roll against the Red Raidekrs, who are 1-2 after losing to Texas last week. Cowboy Coach Jim Stanley asserts that Tech "has the best defensive secondary we've seen this year."

Coach Vince Gibson of Kansas State regards Memphis State as "the most explosive team we've faced. They are capable of breaking a game open with their kick returns."

The Wildcats undoubtedly will have to keep a close eye on a freshman split end, Bobby Ward, who catches passes and returns punts and kickoffis with the best of them.

Sports Corner

By RON JAYNES

Danny Summerfield, possessing the talents of a true fortune- teller, became the first member of the Daily Standard's prognostication panel to record a perfect score this season when he picked the winner in every Southeast Missouri high school game last week.

Not far behind were DS sportswriters, Dianne Ezzell and Stuart McGhee along with reader John Greer. The old pro went 8- 2 last week.

It seems that the real pro of the Daily Standard Sports staff, Billy Harrison, is bypassing the gridiron season and is concentrating on the upcoming basketball campaign.

Joining with us this week are the usual readers, Bobby Gentry, Tony Ford, Scott Marlin, Jerry Gentry, John Greer, Mike Gentry...But our champ, Danny Summerfield, failed to mail in his guesses this week. Of course Dianne Stuart and yours truly are among the guessers.

This week's schedule, although slim, provides evenly matched encounters....

Here's the way the panel see's tonight's action:

Charleston vs. Perryville--- The Bluejays have apparently convinced the Daily Standard prognosticators of their ability, because they are a unanimous pick to topple the Pirates. Well not exactly unanimous...There were a pair of ties called....How about CHS 7, PHS 6

Jackson vs. Poplar Bluff--- This should be the best encounter of the evening...Both teams are undefeated... The Indians are 6- 4 favorites of the panel...I'm one of the Mule rooters...Something like 21-14.

Paragould, Ark. vs. Kennett--- All of the panel except one went with Arkansas...I'll have to stay with the home state gridders...Kennett by three.

Willow Springs vs. Doniphan--- The Dons are odds on favorite to lose...I must agree...They need a little more seasoning. WSHS 14-6.

Dexter vs. Hayti-- The Bearcats are unanimous picks to waltz past the Indians...I agree.. Dexter 28, Hayti 13.

Malden vs. Caruthersville--- The panel didn't quite know which way to go in this contest...Five members gave the Green Wave the nod and four the Tigers. A flip of the coin shows the Green Wave winners...MHS 13, CHS 7.

Cape Central vs. Hannibal--- The undefeated Bengals step out of the district and should return with a convincing victory...if the panel members vote helps. They have the Bengals all the way. CCHS 42, HHS 13.

We sure would like to have some new guessers to join with us...come on and try your luck...It's fun.

Raiders favored

NEW YORK (AP) — The moment of truth arrives this Sunday for the Minnesota Vikings and the Dallas Cowboys.

Counted out as championship contenders in many preseason estimates, the Vikings and Cowboys each have put together three straight victories and head into the fourth weekend of the 1973 National Football League season as two of the four unbeaten and untied teams. The others are the Pittsburgh Steelers and the surprising Los Angeles Rams.

The downfall of both the Vikings and the Cowboys, so the preseason guessing went, would come from aging defensive units—Dallas' Doomsday Defense and the Vikings' Purple Gang.

So, who's got the best scoring defense in the National Conference? And who's No. 2?

Dallas has yielded 30 points in three games, Minnesota 32.

The Vikings face the Detroit Lions, a team that Minnesota has mangled the last 10 times the two met, on Sunday. The Cowboys play the Washington Redskins in the Monday night television game. Both Minnesota and Dallas are on the road.

Will these two teams play like they've been playing...or like they were expected to before the season started?

Before attempting to answer these and other pressing questions, let's quietly whisper that last week's Fearless Forecast was a lousy seven right, six wrong. That dropped the average to .703 with a 26-112 showing.

Minnesota (3-0) at Detroit (1-1) — The Vikings are favored to make it 11 straight over the Lions. But all good things must come to an end sometimes, so...LIONS 24, VIKINGS 21.

San Diego (1-2) at Pittsburgh (3-0) — The Steelers' defense against scoring, best in the American Conference, has given up seven fewer points than the Cowboys, best in the NFC. No wonder the Chargers are 18point underdogs. Who can argue with that spread. STEELERS 30, CHARGERS 10.

Los Angeles (3-0) at Houston (0-3) — Can you think of any reason why it won't be 4-0 and 0-4 after this Sunday, even if Sid Gillman, the Houston general manager, is helping out with the Oiler offense? RAMS 42, OILERS 21.

SHS freshmen lose to Cape

Cape Girardeau Central's freshman football team rolled up a 20-6 victory at Public School Stadium Thursday evening, making rather easy work of the Sikeston gridders.

David Shell scored the only Sikeston touchdown on a quarterback sneak.

Social Security system sets up new restrictions

By JIM COLSON

CAPE GIRARDEAU— The Social Security number has long been an important key in the functioning of the entire Social Security System. As it was originally set up, each wage earner or self- employed person was to get one number, which would last him all his working life. All of his earned income would be reported to that number, and when the time came to retire, his personal Social Security record would be up to date and ready to pay off.

And that's the way it's worked, nearly all of the time. But Social Security officials are finding that they have been a little too casual in the method of giving out numbers, with the result that too many people have more than one number. Therefore, the way of issuing Social Security numbers has been changed.

From now on, most numbers will be issued from the central office at Baltimore, where each application will be carefully screened to keep duplications at the absolute minimum. Now, this will take longer than it used to; so people, particularly younger people, are urged to apply for their Social Security number before the time they actually need the number.

Before this year, there were few restrictions on how a Social Security number should be used, and as a result, numbers were sometimes used erroneously.

Now, the law provides a penalty for the deliberate issuance of a Social Security number, including such acts as use of a number obtained on the basis of false information, or to falsely represent a number to be a Social Security number, or to use a number issued to someone else for the purpose of obtaining or increasing a payment under Social Security or any other federally funded program.

It is also illegal to furnish false information to establish or maintain Social Security records (including the number).

ANNUAL SPECIAL STOCKER & FEEDER CATTLE SALE

We will have our annual stock & feeder cattle sale Thursday, October 18, 1973. If you plan on selling cattle in this sale please let us know in order that we may give special advertising and attention to your cattle. We believe our special sale this year will be the best. If we can be of any service feel free to call.

SATURDAY REGULAR LIVESTOCK SALE

Our Livestock sale every Saturday has been very good this year. As you know the market has been excellent on cattle and hogs. We have built more shed room and have done other improvements to our facilities in order to give you the best of service. We have been told by many of our customers that we have one of the best competitive livestock markets in this area.

FARM SALES

We are looking forward to many farm sales this winter and next spring. The market on good used tractors and farm machinery is good with a great demand. We have many buyers from many states who attend all of our farm sales. We buy and sell farm equipment daily.

BUSINESS PROPERTY & MERCHANDISE

We have conducted several auction sales this year and sold the real property as well as all merchandise for business such as lumber companies, implement dealers, machine shops, auto dealers, groceries and hardware stores. Every business we sold was well pleased and said the auction way is the only way with Beck & McCord.

REAL ESTATE

We specialize in farm land, business property and sub- divisions. We also buy and sell real estate privately. If you have real estate to sell list with us for quick service and best results. We have a great demand for farms of all types and sizes. We have been very successful selling all types of real estate at public auction. Call us to sell your real estate at private or auction sale.

What's the law?

The case of the well-seasoned dead man

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Horace was so secretive he didn't even talk to himself. Consequently, when he decided to make a will, he cautiously arranged for two of his neighbors to witness his signature without telling them what kind of document he had signed. In fact, he folded it over so that no part of it could be read.

Years later, when Horace died, it developed that in addition to being very aged, he was also well seasoned. During his lifetime, he had salted away a small fortune. And, when several relatives found out that they had been disinherited, they attacked the validity of his will in court.

"To be legal," they argued, "a will must be witnessed by people who know what they're witnessing. In the case of Horace's will, his witnesses didn't know what he was signing. As far as they knew, it could have been the Declaration of Independence."

"That's absurd," retorted the named executor of the estate. "A will is as personal as a love affair. And if a man wants to keep his will entirely under wraps so that no one will know what they'll receive upon his death, he has the absolute right to do it. To will or not to will, that's his secret."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you invalidate the will of the well-seasoned dead man?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that "to witness" means to see something done. In this case, noted the judge, Horace's witnesses did not see him sign his alleged will since they did not know what he was signing. While they saw him sign something, concluded the judge, they had no idea of what it was.

USDA shopping for hamburger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is shopping for hamburger so school cafeterias can beef up their menus, but officials admit they might have to settle for chicken soup again if prices are too high.

No ground beef has been purchased by the federal government for school lunch programs since Jan. 6, 1972. Except for some pork purchased last winter, USDA has concentrated mainly on chicken and turkey.

But, with the recent decline in live cattle prices, the Food and Nutrition Service says it is time to look at hamburger again.

The government notified suppliers last week that offers on ground beef will be accepted for consideration through Oct. 12. William G. Boling, associate director of child nutrition programs, said that if prices are too high the offers will be rejected.

A number of factors, including the beef supply, market outlook and the effect of purchases on consumer prices are used in deciding whether to accept the offers, officials said.

Last December, and on several occasions afterward, the department solicited bids for school lunch beef and then rejected them all because the prices were too high.

We have a new deal in the neighborhood: every family buys the quota of its own kids' cookies for the team benefit, and no one is bothered by door-to-door callers.
